Hixburg

Hixburg, Dec. 10.- The Presbyterian Sunday School has begun a Leader Training Class, which is composed of teen-agers. Each Sunday a boy or girl is designated to assist the superintendent the next Sunday.

Also, a rotating system of teachers of the Bible Class, which is made up of men and women, is proving successful.

A/3C James Hunter Goin, who has been attending Cable and Antenna School, at Frances E. Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne, Wyoming, for 14 weeks, arrived at his home on Saturday for a 33-day furlough.

His next assignment is in Libera, North Africa. He will leave on January 7.

Miss Judy Irene Burrell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Burrell, of Hixburg, and Pvt. James Conner, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Conner, of Appomattox were married on Saturday, Nov. 30, at 3:00 P. M., at the Baptist parsonage in Pamplin. The Rev. J. H. Anderson performed the ceremony, after which a reception was given by the Conners at Elon Baptist Church. Pvt. Conner is a Marine, and is stationed at Lejeune, N. C.

For the present, Mrs. Conner is living at home.

Mr. W. S. Bryant, of Cullen,, Mrs. Shirley Carson's father, was taken to the Virginia Baptist Hospital in Lynchburg on Saturday for treatment. Sunday, Mrs. Carson accompanied Mrs. Bryant to the hospital to spend the day.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sears were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sears and son, of Lynchburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Trivet, of Newport News.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rogers and Mr. N. S. Topping, of Appomattox; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fore, Jr., and son, of Farmville; Mrs. Harriet Charlton, of Washington, and Mrs. Shirley Davis, of Silver Spring, Md., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fore over the holiday week-end.

Mrs. Eugene Sears was hostess to the Woman's Missionary Union of Elon Baptist Church of Pamplin on Monday night. There were 13 present.

CENTER CROSS FARMER USES WINTER PASTURE

Blacksburg, Va.- Peyton Hundley, Rose Hill Farm, Center Cross, Va., uses winter pasture extensively and effectively in his livestock feeding program.

Harold A. Little, County Agent of Essex County, Va., says that Mr. Hundley is feeding his livestock better and more economically by using winter pastures.

Mr. Hundley has 30 head of sheep, 50 head of feeder steers, 25 heifers, and 50 animals in the breeding herd. Eight Hampshire brood sows which have an average of eight pigs make up the balance of the livestock on the farm.

An established pasture of 70 acres of ladino clover and Kentucky 31 fescue makes the nucleus around which Mr. Hundley builds his grazing programs. A mixture of Lee Gold Proof oats, Wong barley, and Atlas wheat, one bushel of each, is sown for winter grazing. Mr. Hundley uses 400 pounds of a 5-10-10 fertilizer when the mixture is sown about September 25. In February or early March, 30 pounds of liquid or solid nitrogen are used as a top-dress. If the field is in rotation for a legume crop, Kenland or Virginia-adapted red clover is sown in the small grain in February or March.

Small grains seeded for grain are also grazed by the sheep and cattle during December and January if the condition of the soil permits. Hogs are allowed to graze the legume mixtures and the established pasture of clover and fescue.

Animal units which Mr. Hundley can graze on his winter pastuers are: two sows and litters per acre of clover and fescue, when the growth is normal and not retarded by drought or extreme cold weather. One cow or equivelent animal unit, on one acre of small grain. This is a limited time, allowing the small grains to recover between grazing. One steer and ewe per one and one-half acres of clover and fescue in November and December.

"Using winter pastures has enabled Mr. Hundley to use his land fully since some could not be used in the production of grain crops. Any excess forage which is not needed for grazing is enclled or cut for hay," County Agent Little said.

"It is difficult to obtain the relative value of an acre of winter grazing, but in talking to Mr. Hundley you would soon be convinced that winter pastures not only are profitable to him in his feeding operation but that they fit into his rotations and help him use his land so well that he is completely convinced that winter pastures are one of the most profitable crops on his farm."

About Your Home

By Frances Dell

In modern home planning, you plant your yard to be a backdrop for your living room and a setting for your house. Today we think the outdoors is to look at as well as to live in.

Framed by youd windows, your garden becomes an endlessly fascinating picture. This picture changes not only from day to day, but from hour to hour as the sun moves. A choice plant, a fountain or a fish pond can become a foual point, a prime subject, without which no garden is complete.

Plan your garden step by step. Don't try to live with an arrangement you don't like just because it is on the plan. Keep flexible and change your pain if results don't appeal to you.

Contrasts mean drama in gardening. Contrast sun and shade, hard surfaces and velvet soft surfaces.

The latest trend is to play down foundation planning. Let a few choice, well-kept accents take care of tying the house to the ground.

It is a good idea to make one major investment a year in your yard. This investment can be a tree, a group of shrubs, or a piece of high-quality equipment. This way you will always be going forward in the upkeep and improvement of your yards.

Heavenly!

Utopia must be the place where the women folks don't change the furniture around in the room every month or two. —Greensboro, Ga. Herald-Journal.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our husband and father, R. L. Carter, who left us two years ago, Dec. 14, 1955.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
And your sweet voice we cannot hear.
Since you've gone the hours seem long,
But the memories of you linger on.

We can't forget you, daddy dear,
Though long may seem the years;
And often in the lonely hours
We wipe away our tears.
